

Auditor General DePasquale Discusses COVID-19 Impacts on Upcoming Election with Committee of Seventy CEO

July 23, 2020

HARRISBURG – During a Facebook Live Chat, Auditor General Eugene DePasquale today hosted David Thornburgh, president and CEO of the non-partisan Committee of Seventy, to discuss how COVID-19 could impact the November general election.

They discussed the importance of ensuring there are enough poll workers stationed at polling places; Pennsylvania's new law allowing no-excuse voting by mail; lessons learned in the delayed spring primary election; and the need for every eligible Pennsylvanian to vote.
