WHAT:

Attorney General Dave Sunday joins law enforcement and community partners to announce the expansion of the Law Enforcement Treatment Initiative (LETI) in Indiana County to include behavioral health and mental health services for program participants.

Indiana County is an existing LETI county and will now become the sixth in Pennsylvania to incorporate behavioral health and mental health services into the program. PA LETI is a law enforcement-led treatment initiative that allows Pennsylvanians seeking treatment to use their local law enforcement, county officials, and community stakeholders, to contact the treatment services they need.
